#30104 A "Dill"icious Experience

Who knew 'candied sweet orange chunks' and 'candied sweet raisin crispies' could be names of pickles?! Join us in the tiny town of St. Joe, Indiana and see how this family owned pickle factory does it! Then, it's a senior prom like you've never seen before – we promise it's so much more than a dance for all involved. And finally, see how horses are being used to heal heroes.

#30106 Ice Cream Sundae World Record

How many scoops of ice cream does it take to beat New Zealand's record for the longest Ice Cream Sundae? A small town in Michigan is determined to find out! Will they succeed or will the unusually hot day melt their efforts away? Then, Rodney and Jann celebrate a company that is bringing jobs back to America. They also discover how this company, Mahindra Tractors, is supporting our veterans at the same time.

#30107 Silver Lakes Sand Dunes/Sanbol Lighthouse/Strasburg Pretzels

Getting sand in their shoes is the least of their worries, when Jann and Rodney take to the sand dunes to race across the sand in high-powered four wheelers. Then Rodney overcomes his fear of heights as he limbs to the top of the historic Little Sabol Lighthouse on the coast of Lake Michigan. Also Rodney and Jann try their hand at making pretzels. They better keep their day jobs!

#30108 An American Pickers Paradise and A Town Full of Bologna

Discover what famed American Picker Mike Wolfe has in his private collection! And watch as Rodney tries out one of Mike's prized possessions...yikes! And a visit one town that's not offended when you say it's 'full of Bologna'. In fact, they celebrate the deli delicacy by closing down city streets and throwing ...bologna...(You thought we were going to say a Party!) Actually, it IS a big party with a bologna-ring toss contest (who knew!?) and their famed outhouse races.

#30126 Meatball Festival/Bad Boy Mowers

We visit a small vacation town in South Carolina where playing ball for one weekend will satisfy everyone's appetite. It's a one a spicy meatball . . . and record setting! Then we get an inside look at a mower that has revolutionized the industry, and it's American Made!
